CPYRGHT

James Martin denied yes-make any other comment." terday that he has evidence that the accused assassin of President Kennedy planned to kill former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. But the Commission investigating the assassination said a published story quoting him as making that claim is before the panel.

Martin, a Dallas businessman who has been business agent for Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald, widow of the accused killer, entered his denial in talking with newsmen just before a three and a half-hour session as a Commission witness.

After the session Martin would not talk at all, on that subject or any other.

Allen W. Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency and member of the Presidential Commission, would only say:

"The Commission has that before it— I don't want to

That was as close as Dulles would come to answering when asked whether the story had been discussed with Martin.

Asked if Martin is still representing Mrs. Oswald, Dulles replied, "that's a legal question, I don't think I should get into it."
